Xiao Ji is a proud and valiant knight. He was known for his expert techniques in fighting and his courage. The death of his fiancée, Liu Lanzhi, made him give up this career and devote himself to a more peaceful life. Then in a sudden attack, a small group of aliens showed up, threw him down from a cliff and scattered his corpse. The last thing he saw is a woman with many white feathers. She threw his body down from the cliff and disappeared as well. When he woke up, he was in the desert. He wandered in the desert for many years. He couldn't recall the color of his armor or the color of the feathers, but remembered very well that the woman was full of white feathers. The same woman had also rescued other aliens being persecuted by the human. After he recovered, he joined the war to protect the humanity and exterminate those who got evil from aliens. He returned home after his mission was completed. Later, he settled down. However, before he died, he asked his daughter, Xiao Zhi to keep his legacy alive. Gameplay Who dies first (谁先死?) What is this word? the original Chinese characters "dragon" and "lion" are very difficult to recognize for Chinese people, maybe "lion" is "mascot", it seems to be something. In my works, I usually give a funny explanation for the origin of the words in the story, while in "who dies first", I didn't really give a funny explanation. In fact, the word "dragon" is the right word, but the word "lion" is wrong. Although the pronunciation is "mimana" for the English, we should rather translate it as "dragon". In fact, the origin of the word "dragon" can be seen from "pan gu", because PanGu has a head-like design. From "lion", the original meaning of the word is to be courageous and noble. So I decide to use "lion" as the translation of "dragon" to make it more convincing, but if you do not understand "pan gu" and "dragon" at first glance, you won't get the meaning of this game. "What" means "dragon" in this case. Content in a nutshell Milano, si avvia da soli a farsi strada sulle piste dell'aereo
