* Part 3: Working with Photoshop Layers In this part of the chapter, you see an overview of the layers that comprise your image and how they're created, as well as how you can use them to edit and manipulate the image. ## Reading the Layers Dialog Box We'll start with a simple explanation of the Layers window. When you first open the Layers dialog box in Photoshop, it looks like this: After you've selected an image file in the Layers dialog box, the Layers window opens to show you the image's current layers, as well as tools and layers that you can use to manipulate it. You can't edit the image unless the layer that you're working on is open. The next few sections discuss how to open layers and work with them.

Q: Randomly colored points on grid I'm trying to create a grid with a random range of colors. The random colors would be chosen from a list with 9 different colors. The grid would be 300 pixels by 300 pixels. The problem that I have with the code I wrote is that the same colors are repeated in random places of the grid. For example, the list holds the colors "blue", "green", "red", "light green", "yellow", "dark blue", "purple", "light blue" and "white". If the x-coordinate of the 300 pixels is 0, the first color should be used, if it's 100, the second color should be used and so on. x

Q: Lua button causes error while in parent application I have a game with Lua - script on top of the Lua game engine. I'm trying to add a button to the game window which will create a subwindow containing a library view of a button of a library. When the button is pressed in the library view, it should open the button in the parent application. This is so that the library doesn't have to be reloaded. In Lua's version of Win32 api, I can't seem to get it working the way I want to. I can create a subwindow without problems, but I can't control its position from the main window or get any button control. In Win32's windows API, I'm using CreateWindow and GetMessage, and even in Lua I have created a function that tries to do the same. My "main" program handles the button press and loads the library. The function I've created is called by the button_pressed function in the game engine.

lua.h #ifndef _lua_h #define _lua_h
#include "common_types.h" int luaopen_c_window(lua_State* L); #endif lua.c #include "lua.h" int
luaopen_c_window(lua_State* L) { HINSTANCE h_inst = NULL; HWND hwnd = NULL; int win =
create window"); } else { h_inst = ::LoadLibrary(LUA_HWND_SUBWND); hwnd = ::GetModuleHandle(NULL); ::SetWindowLong(hwnd, GWL_STYLE, WS_CHILD); ::SetWindowLong(hwnd, GWL_ID, GetWindowLong(hwnd,
